Pappas George

George Pappas was born in 1973 in Nuremberg, Germany. He received his degree in Psychology in 1996 from the Department of Psychology of the School of Social Sciences of the University of Crete.   Then he specialized in Clinical Psychology from the Postgraduate Specialization Program of the same University . and holds a license to practice the profession of psychologist. In 2015, he was trained in Neuropsychological Assessment from the Postgraduate Program of Clinical Neuropsychology and Cognitive Neurosciences of the School of Medicine of the University of Athens. Since then he participates as a scientific associate in the Special Clinic for Cognitive Disorders in the First Neurological Clinic of the Eginition Hospital. Since 2020, he works at the Day Center of the Integrated Treatment Unit for Alzheimer's Disease and Related Diseases ""Karellio"". His clinical and research interest is focused on the field of dementia and the disorders of cognitive functions and attends pan-Hellenic and pan-European scientific conferences related to their prevention, diagnosis and treatment.