

Eleftherios Samiotis

"I am a graduate of Salford University in Great Britain in the field of prosthetic and orthotic science. My work experience in London clinics as well as the dozens of certificates and seminars that I have in my possession from the largest manufacturers abroad, have given me the opportunity to offer services and transfer know-how at the highest level. I have been President of the Panhellenic association of licensed Prosthetics and Orthotics for five years and a member of various examination committees of the Ministry of Health. My collaboration with Nikos Petalas and our clinical team promises you that the quality of the constructions and the services we provide in the most modern orthopedic center in the country, will make you a member of our family from day one."
