

Tsironis Christos

Dr. Christos Tsironis is Assoc. Prof. (Social Theory of Contemporary Culture and Christianity) at the School of Theology, dep. of Ethics and Sociology, Aristotle University of Thessaloniki. He teaches courses both in Bachelor and Master's Degrees. He is in charge of the practicum in the Dep. Of Theology and member of various scientific Associations, coordinator and board member of research projects and member of a variety of experts groups: Board member of the European Research Centre of Silk Road, Board Member of the Post Graduate Prog. Tourism and Local Development (Aristotle University Of Thessaloniki, school of Economics) and served as Board member of the Hellenic Observatory for Intercultural Education. Director and founding member of the "Social Research Center for Religion and Culture", and of the "Laboratory of Bioethics" in the Aristotle University of Thessaloniki. He has published on Contemporary Social Theory, Social Problems, Sociology of Christianity, Cultural, Religious and Polymorphic Tourism, Humanities and Ethics in national and international scientific journals.

