

Baldiritsi Eleni

Dr. Baldiritsi completed her BA in Psychology, Philosophy, Education and Psychology (Major: Psychology) at the Department of Philosophy, Pedagogy, and Psychology, School of Philosophy, University of Athens, Greece. Her research and clinical interests focus on linguistic and cognitive abilities of individuals with Autism Spectrum Disorders (ASD), intellectual disabilities, and dementia. Dr. Baldiritsi completed her PhD in English at Aristotle University of Thessaloniki, in the School of English. In 2019 she started her postdoctoral research at the Department of Neurology (School of Medicine) at AUTH. She has worked as an adjunct lecturer at the Department of Special Education of the University of Thessaly, teaching courses related to Neurodevelopmental Disorders and Emotional and Behavioral Disorders. Since 2021, she has been teaching in the MSc in Neuroscience and Neurodegenerative Diseases at the Medical School of Aristotle University. She has extensive hands-on experience having worked for the fourteen years with children and adolescents with developmental disorders in mainstream state schools and schools for children with special needs. She has published in international scientific journals on the linguistic and cognitive abilities of children with autism, individuals with neurodegenerative disorders, and Down syndrome. Additionally, she has participated in several research projects, including "Research-Create-Innovate" and Horizon21.

