

Bekiari Chrysanthi

Neurologist, MSc, PhD, is a graduate of the Medical Dr. Chrysanthi Bekiari is an Assistant Professor of Anatomy and Histology at the Veterinary School of AuTh, Greece. She holds a DVM degree (2006) from the University of Thessaly, Greece and a PhD in neuroanatomy (2015) from AuTh, Greece. During her PhD studies she gained 5 competitive awards and scholarships. From 2014 and up to date she is the authorized lab animal veterinarian of the Experimental and Research Center of Papageorgiou Hospital. Her research interests focus on the study of endogenous stem cells of the adult brain in health and disease and in animal models of devastating CNS disorders. She has participated in 14 funded research projects and was the Principal Investigator (PI) in 3 of them. She has published 24 original research and review papers in biomedical research journals with impact factor, 2 chapters in scientific books and 62 poster and oral presentations in national and European conferences. She has supervised 1 postdoctoral study focused on adult hippocampal neurogenesis.

