

Fitsioris Xenophon

I was born in Thessaloniki and studied medicine at its Universities Parma (Italy) and Thessaloniki (AUTH). I specialized in Neurology in A' University Neurological Clinic of AUTH and I hold a Ph.D diploma from the respective University (Subject: The P300 wave of Knowledge of Evoked Potentials in Epilepsy). I retrained in Neurophysiology and for 20 consecutive years I have been dealing with Dementia within the framework of the special clinic that operates at the Papageorgiou Hospital, as with Epilepsy at the corresponding outpatient clinic. I have participated in many International and Greek Conferences with oral presentations announcements and speaking engagements on the subject of dementia, and I have participated in research protocols, in writing books I have also published many works in Greek and abroad magazines concerning the scientific developments of the disease. The last years and until today I hold the position of Neurological Consultant at the Consulting Station Dementia of the Municipality of Kalamaria. The existence of structures such as the Dementia Advisory Centers is of great importance for informing the citizens and for the best and most effective treatment of the disease, which is apart from a medical and social problem.
